

Northside Rising's overall aim is to fight for a stronger, healthier community. Rising Tide Projects will be our first chance to do that as we work towards greater long-term goals!

If you have a project idea you think would improve our community, applications are now open!

Rising Tide projects are specifically designed to support resident initiated projects that are planned and implemented by people working together with community organizations, businesses and/or levels of government over the next 12 months.

Priority themes for the Rising Tide Projects

- Pride in Community
- Inclusion
- Community Connections

Rising Tide Project Values

- Fun and Social
- Working Together
- Inclusion
- * Creativity
- * Learning and Building News Skills
- * Making an impact

Rising Tide Guidelines

Northside Rising staff and the Working Group are on standby to support Rising Tide project proponents to meet the following guidelines:

- A fully completed Rising Tide Project Outline describing how the project will support one of the three themes.
- A concept of how success of the project will be measured.
- A completed Rising Tide budget
- Involvement of at least 2 residents
- Involvement of at least 1 partner organizations (private sector, public sector, or non-profit sector), one disbursing funds for the project expenses, and provide a record of transactions.
- No financial commitment from residents or partner organization is required
- A willingness to see challenges as learnings, feel comfortable adapting project plans as they unfold and take time to celebrate success along the way!

For information or get involved please contact

Dan Bunbury, Northside Rising

(902) 577 -1544 dbunbury@inspiringcommunities.ca